22nd Annual IBERIABANK/Foundation Golf Tournament

The 22nd Annual IBERIABANK/BRTC Foundation Golf Tournament is scheduled for Friday, October 2 at Rolling Hills Country Club in Pocahontas.

This two-person scramble, underwritten and supported by IBERIABANK, is the largest fundraising event for BRTC, providing funding for student scholarships. "The BRTC Foundation especially appreciates the outstanding support of our sponsors," said Kelly Rose, Chair of the Foundation. "For more than 20 years, our sponsors have made this event a great financial success thereby enabling the Foundation to grow its support of scholarships and to fulfill our role in supporting the mission of Black River Technical College."

Four-star, three-star, two-star, and one-star sponsorships with signage are available at $1,000, $500, $250, and $125. Four-star and three-star sponsorships include one team entry fee and golf cart as well as the option of having a promotional tent along the fairway.

The four-star, $1,000 sponsorship includes a scholarship naming opportunity.

The sponsor at this level will be able to name the scholarship awarded to a BRTC student for the 2016-2017 academic year. The scholarship will actually be in the amount of $2,000, awarded $1,000 each semester, fall and spring.

For more information on the tournament or sponsorships, contact Jessica Bailey at (870) 248-4189.

Serendipity to Begin Twelfth Year

A new year of Serendipity opens September 25 with the Harper Lee novel, Go Set a Watchman. A reading and discussion group sponsored by BRTC, Serendipity is beginning its 12th year. Membership is open to the public. The monthly luncheon discussions are coordinated by Patti Blaxton and staff of the Office of Corporate and Community Education, and facilitated by Jessica Bailey of the Office of Institutional Advancement and Dr. Jan Ziegler, Faculty Emerita at BRTC. Programs typically include the use of text, video, and music.

"I am really excited about our new year in Serendipity and honored to have the opportunity once more to get together er each month with returning and new members," Ziegler said. "Some of this year's titles are favorites of Serendipity members, and I appreciate their suggestions. I really have made a special effort to include more humor when making the reading selections, and I think we will not only think deeply but laugh long as we meet to talk about such book as The Rosie Project and Let Me Be Frank With You." Not all the books are funny, she pointed out, but said that "all promote BRTC's commitment to lifelong learning and all have a special hook to keep us thinking and talking, regardless of whether we have all read all the books."

Emergency Vehicle Specialists Donate to Fire Science

Emergency Vehicle Specialists (EVS) donated $35,000 worth of extrication equipment to the BRTC Fire Science program.

The bundle of Holmatro rescue tools are all items firefighters would use when working a vehicle accident. Holmatro donated a cutter which allows firefighters to cut roofs off cars in accidents, a spreader which allows firefighters to open vehicle doors, a ram which allows firefighters to remove debris off of victims, and a power unit which supplies the power to all these tools.

Philip Posey, the representative from EVS, explained, "Holmatro rescue tools are lighter and better for firemen and first responders." Holmatro donated these tools to BRTC through a program which provides schools such as BRTC with the latest equipment. As Holmatro develops more advanced equipment, they will donate it to BRTC and replace the older, donated equipment.

"The extrication equipment we have is over 20 years old and needs to be replaced," stated Alan Haskins Director of Fire Science. "It has been used in hundreds of classes and is beginning to get worn out. Replacing it was going to cost more than $40,000. EVS's donation will allow us to purchase other equipment we have been needing."
